A centurion called Cornelius , lived in Caesarea. Although he was not a Jew, he and his family feared God. They prayed to God regularly and gave to those in need.

One day, Cornelius had a vision of an angel of God. The angel said to go and get Peter who was staying with Simon the tanner.

Cornelius immediately sent two of his servants and a faithful soldier, to Peter in Joppa.

Meanwhile, Peter went up to the rooftop at Simon's house to pray and he fell into a trance. He saw the heavens open and a large sheet full of unclean animals being lowered down. A voice commanded him, "Get up, Peter. Kill and eat."

"Surely not, Lord!" Peter replied. "I have never eaten anything impure or unclean." The voice spoke to him a second time, "Do not call anything impure that God has made clean." This happened three times, and immediately the sheet was taken back to heaven.

While Peter was thinking about the meaning of the vision, the messengers from Cornelius arrived. Peter invited them in to stay and the next day they travelled to Caesarea.

Cornelius had gathered his relatives and close friends together. Peter said, "I now know that God accepts people from every nation who fear and obey Him." Peter then told them about Jesus and his death and resurrection.

As Peter was speaking the Holy Spirit was poured out on the Gentiles. Peter then baptised Cornelius and his household.
