

Naaman was his name, and he was known to be brave.

This man was a captain of Syria, which was a land far away

But one day, he fell sick, a leprous man with a slave

This little slave was a Jewish girl, who wanted to obey

There is only one true GOD – a GOD you must obey – for He can heal your wounds and drive your fears away.

Elisha was his name, and he was a man of GOD.

This man was a prophet who spoke the truth, teaching people God's way.

But one day, he told Naaman something rather odd.

Wash seven times he said to him, from this you must not stray

There is only one true GOD – a GOD you must obey – for He can heal your wounds and drive your fears away.

Naaman was his name, and he was known to be brave.

This man was a captain of Syria, which was a land far away

But one day, he listened, a leprous man with a slave

He washed in the Jordan seven times, and was healed on that day

There is only one true GOD – a GOD you must obey – for He can heal your wounds and drive your fears away.

There is only one true GOD – a GOD you must obey – for He can heal your wounds and drive your fears away.
