The Egg

Every butterfly begins as a tiny egg only 1-3 mm in size. However, under a microscope the surface of the egg becomes a magnificent specimen of symmetry and intricate design. Some are ribbed, some are honeycombed, and some ornamented like a wicker basket. Each species has a unique design.

Depending on the species, a female butterfly may lay just a few, to hundreds of eggs on or near plants that the babies will eat. Some are laid in clusters, some stacked, and some singly. Some are laid on tops of leaves, some underneath, some hidden in tree bark, or on grass stems.

As an egg is laid it is covered with a sticky liquid that immediately glues it firmly to the leaf or stem. Those laid in warm weather hatch in a few days, but some eggs can also survive through a winter.

An egg starts out light coloured and darkens as it is ready to hatch. Then a small hole appears and a tiny caterpillar chews its way out and for its first meal consumes the egg shell.

Perhaps we can think of this as the beginning of a spiritual life: tiny, helpless, but beautiful and full of potential.

This is my Father's World

This is my Father's world,
And to my listening ears
All nature sings, and round me rings
The music of the spheres.

This is my Father's world:
I rest me in the thought
Of rocks and trees, of skies and seas
His hands the wonders wrought.

This is my Father's world:
The birds their carols raise,
The morning light, the lily white,
Declare their Maker's praise.

This is my Father's world;
He shines in all that's fair;
In the rustling grass I hear Him pass,
He speaks to me everywhere.

This is my Father's world:
O let me ne'er forget
That though the wrong seems oft so strong
God is the Ruler yet.

This is my Father's world:
Why should my heart be sad?
The Lord is King: let the heaven's ring!
God reigns; let earth be glad!

Get to know a butterfly

The Eastern Black Swallowtail

Family: Papilionidae

Latin name: Papilio polyxenes

The female butterfly lays each egg singly, a tiny pale yellow sphere, on the underneath of leaves on plants of the parsley family such as carrot, dill, parsnip, or fennel. A little black caterpillar with a white spot midway down hatches in eight to ten days. As it grows, and sheds its skin a few times, it becomes lime green with bands of black and spots of yellow or orange.

The caterpillar protects itself by a bad odour given off by two horns behind its head that pop up when it is agitated. They eat mostly at night, growing fast, and one day three to four weeks later, attach themselves to a stem with fine threads they create. They shed their skin one last time, and a greenish chrysalis is revealed looking much like a bit of wood. This stage can last a little less than two weeks in the summer, but will also last over the winter if it is later in the year.

Gradually the chrysalis turns black with rows of yellow spots, and then the covering splits and out comes the beautiful Swallowtail butterfly. An adult butterfly lives for six to fourteen days feeding on nectar from the flowers of milkweed, purple coneflower, bee balm, zinnia, phlox, and dill.

Psalm 97

(1) The LORD reigneth; let the earth rejoice; let the multitude of isles be glad thereof.

(2) Clouds and darkness are round about him: righteousness and judgment are the habitation of his throne.

(3) A fire goeth before him, and burneth up his enemies round about.

(4) His lightnings enlightened the world: the earth saw, and trembled.

(5) The hills melted like wax at the presence of the LORD, at the presence of the Lord of the whole earth.

(6) The heavens declare his righteousness, and all the people see his glory.

(7) Confounded be all they that serve graven images, that boast themselves of idols: worship him, all ye gods.

(8) Zion heard, and was glad; and the daughters of Judah rejoiced because of thy judgments, O LORD.

(9) For thou, LORD, art high above all the earth: thou art exalted far above all gods.

(10) Ye that love the LORD, hate evil: he preserveth the souls of his saints; he delivereth them out of the hand of the wicked.

(11) Light is sown for the righteous, and gladness for the upright in heart.

(12) Rejoice in the LORD, ye righteous; and give thanks at the remembrance of his holiness.
